Dear Stelly's students, parents, guardians and families,

Can you believe that we are starting our fifth week of this new reality?

Last Week

Students have been accessing online tech support via the Stelly's Student Tech Support Google Classroom (use code: blu3sc3) while others are connecting online with their peers or staff for support. The good news is that most students and staff now have the basics of "remote" learning under control. While we understand that this model is challenging for a number of learners, we have been working to expand support to address students' needs.

At this Moment in Time

There has been lots of speculation regarding the possibility of school reopening. In an effort to provide some clarification, here are some comments made by Education Minister Rob Fleming on April 28, 2020. He indicated that all schools "are operating under the guidelines established by the provincial health officer and the Center for Disease Control to ensure the safety of our students and education professionals."

The minister indicated they are "looking at when and how schools would be able to increase the number of students receiving in-class instruction and what a phased approach can look like".

The Education Minister is working with other ministries and educational partners to develop plans, for a number of possible scenarios including resuming some in-class instruction in a controlled and measured way for the future.

Before this occurs, they are monitoring and learning about what is happening in other jurisdictions that have begun the process of phasing in access. This information will help inform an evidence-based plan in BC, which minimizes the risk of COVID-19 transmission, for when the conditions are appropriate.

The decision regarding when and how schools will gradually open, will be driven by science and data. We will keep you apprised as more information becomes available. In the meantime, we will continue with the "remote" learning model that is now in place and continue planning for pathways for students to return to school this year and in the fall.

On behalf of Stelly's admin. team, we encourage you to continue to stay safe, stay home, remain healthy, and to reach out with any thing you may need - information, clarification or more practical needs to support your child. We also encourage students to find ways to check in with their friends -by text, phone, email, facetime. This is a really isolating time for us all and you need to make a point of reaching out to your friends and your peers.
